Foreword

Just as the athletic teams have had much success in the past year, this year's senior class has been a successful one also. Three seniors passed the NROTC tests and another three were semi-finalists in the Merit Scholarship Tests.

More important than sports and studies, however, is the tradition of honor and loyalty at the Academy. We feel that, in some measure, we have raised the standards of the Academy a little and encouraged others to hold them even higher. We hand over the torch to new hands with the confidence that it will shine brighter.

TAZE HUBARD

The teachers at the Academy never know why Taze is in such a hurry to leave the Academy after school but the boys that congregate at West's drug store do. There, every afternoon you may find Taze's green monster parked outside. Girls of all ages may be found standing around staring at the car of their idol. A few may even be seen sitting in the front seat caressing the beautiful shrunken head which hangs from the rear view mirror or listening to the sweet sound from his wolf horn. Inside, if you can make your way through the girls in the doorway, you may find Taze sitting at the fountain sipping a milk shake and telling his admirers of the day's happenings at school, such as finding the elastic modulus and how he learned to extract the square root of a minus quantity.

On the serious side, Taze's unusual qualities of leadership and his calmness and composure are a real asset to the school. His perfect example of friendship and service to others explains why he was elected president of the senior class and student body. Taze is a member of the Key Club and Glee Club and is on the Annual and "Belfry" staffs. Taze's general good nature and unselfish participation in school activities will be an asset to V.M.I., which he plans to attend, although we doubt that he will get there in his '48 Chevy.

BRUCE PRICE

Here we have a six-year man who has, during this time, risen to the office of Vice-President of the Student Council. He is also on the "Belfry" staff and a member of the Key Club and the Science Club. As for sports, he is a two-year member of the varsity basketball team.

He is constantly on the low honor roll and leans toward math and the sciences. He wants to attend an Ivy League college where he plans to receive his doctorate.

Bruce can talk intelligently on any subject, as proven by his philosophical and theological debates in the Senior Study Hall.

MALCOLM SCULLY

Maybe Scully hates his fellow man — a possibility that would go unnoticed by all but the shrewdest observers, for it is one of the few subjects about which he has never expressed an opinion, and he conceals any sadistic tendencies by an outward demeanor of felicity and warm regard. But, it is known that he maintains top grades, a position on the student council, and editorship of "The Belfry" without apparent struggle in what looks like an effort to inflict inferiority complexes on the many people who respect him. This year he plans to club the school to death, that is, in science, keys, and monograms. It is he who, in the form of a monster with a hairy face, terrorizes the senior study hall, in an idolatrous impersonation of Grendel. And inescapable are Scully's agonizing renditions of a form of brainwashing called folk music.

Funny thing, though, one finds it difficult to think unfavorably of Scully, as if the connection strikes a wry note. And, after associating with him and seeing him as he is most enjoyably seen — a very pleasant fellow with a quick and intelligent mind, whose future awaits his command — one is apt to discard any unapparent hypothesis concerning him on the basis that, if it is correct, it is best for all forgotten.

BOBBY BENNETT

"Are there any other questions?"

"Yes, Sir, what are you doing?"

If you sat in the Sixth Form's Math class each day, these words would probably seem repetitious. The great mathematician is none other than Bobby Bennett. Whether Bobby is exhibiting his great mathematical (?) mind to his classmates or "putting" on the "greens" of the Princess Anne Golf Course, he has left a lasting impression upon the Academy.

There are few conversations concerning world affairs and religion in Senior Study Hall that Bobby doesn't offer his views. After his opinions are presented, it is impossible to persuade him to change them even by taking his tom-tom away from him.

In school activities, Bobby holds the office of Treasurer of the Senior Class and Student Body, he's a member of the Key Club, and Co-Editor of this year's Orange and White. Also, he has gained recognition around school because of his numerous golf championships; and not only does he have upon him the strain of his matches, but he has to face 300 boys on his return to school.

A great leader, on or off the course, Bobby, I'm sure, will be an asset at the college of his choice.

DOUGLAS AVERY

Doug is the short-haired member of our class with the long-haired tastes. Any morning one can hear him passing along the hall followed by an aria, which gently lingers upon the air. No square when it comes to way-out music, man — music from here to the real outmost — he is really on to the old baton.

He carries his sense of rhythm into the pulse of world affairs, for he intends to enter the Foreign Service. We hope that he can help to promote some sadly lacking harmony in the world arena. At all events, from what we see of him around the campus, we judge he is an embryo diplomat with a potentiality for becoming a full-sized one later.

As rough a place as this old world is, we certainly hope that he can do his part to soothe the savage beast.

RALPH BEAMON

We here introduce Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde — Mr. Quiet-in-the-Classroom and Mr. Life-of-the-Party — Ralph Beamon.

Perhaps Ralph is like the waters he sails on, varying in their moods. At all events, he is devoted to sailing, competent on the element that broadly surrounds the little peninsula of Norfolk and that gives him the freedom to contemplate time, space and eternity. For Ralph is a scholar who has figured from the standpoint of mathematics and physics just what makes a sailboat move. He thinks, indeed, in all directions — genetics, nuclear physics, psychology, to mention a few.

His intellectual stature is matched by his personality. He is poised and gentlemanly, "All the elements so mixed in him that Nature may stand up and say, 'Here is a man.'"

DAVID BOWMAN

David has been at the Academy for two years, and during that time he has proved to be both a gentleman and a scholar.

The members of the senior class will long remember Dave for two momentous reasons: (1) his keen sense of humor and (2) his red Mercedes 300. However these are only a few of the notable reminiscences that will keep Dave's name immortal in the annals of Academy history.

One of David's unusual talents is that of originating unique ideas. Last year when we were stuck for a theme for the Junior Senior, Dave immediately came up with a solution. He suggested that we tear down the walls of the gym and call our theme "Jungle Night at the Academy."

Seriously, Dave's sense of humor and gentlemanly manner have been a priceless contribution to Form VI. We the graduating class of '59 are proud to have David as a member of our organization.

ISAAC GLASSER

A short, stocky figure darts into senior study hall; "Are we going to have a quiz in history tomorrow?" this apparition frantically asks. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, the figure will go into needless agony and rantings on the evils of "pop quizzes." You know by now, of course, that I'm talking about the one and only Zack Glasser.

Zack sees — with his long-range specs on — three sides to life: school, social, and business. If you're in search of a fast way to make a million dollars on the stock market, Zack's the man to handle your investment problems. On the other hand, if you're looking for the answer to a question on the previous night's homework, here also is the man to see.

A very consistent and conscientious worker academically, Zack fills his spare time "composing" music (or whatever it is), playing an excellent game of tennis, wrestling, and signing autographs for his fan club, which is made up entirely of the opposite sex.

Zack has become somewhat of a permanent installation at the Academy, and this being his last year at the school, there will be a very definite vacancy when he leaves.

RICHARD GLASSER

The purpose of this article is to reveal the truth in the secret life of R. Glasser.

The green monster (a 1955 six-cylinder Ford with a two-barrel carburetor and one exhaust) comes tearing down (10 miles per hour) North Shore Road and squeals into Cedar Level Drive. The car skids into a parking place and out jumps a tall, short, fat, thin young hoodlum wearing black motorcycle boots, hat, jacket and denims. He runs to the locker room, changes into his ivy league suit, shirt, tie and socks, brushes his hair out of a duck tail, puts on his sunglasses, picks up the school books he had left there the night before (never take home a book is his motto), and walks out. He then proceeds to the senior study hall where at eight-thirty he relates to his classmates the statistics of the previous night's drags.

This is a typical morning in the secret life of R. (for racing) Dick Glasser.

Seriously though, Dick is a real asset to the graduating class of '59. Contributing to all of his classes and working for the benefit of the school, Dick continually maintains an honor roll average. He is always in the center of all activities, be they in fun or in seriousness.

FREDRIC BRUCE GOLDBERG

When Fred entered the Norfolk Academy three years ago, Wilson High's loss was Academy's gain. The Academy gained a boy that excelled in scholastic aptitude while at the same time added greatly to any group. Frequently laughing and habitually cheerful, Fred is enlightening to all who know him.

In Fred, one clearly sees an individual who is enjoying life and receiving the benefits of a gay existence. Quite the lady's man, he has that "dashing" appearance as he dashes about in his Ford convertible. At the present his romancing necessitates occasional week-end excursions to Richmond, with a report the following Monday on his — shall we say — "adventures."

In all seriousness Fred has been a definite asset to the class of '59. His contributions of enthusiasm and friendship have made him a popular and accepted member of the class, and he will long be remembered by his classmates for the phrase he made immortal, "But, Sir, you're picking on me."

BILLY HOFHEIMER

"Bird," as he is called by his classmates, is definitely the one who brought about the coining of the phrase, "Make hay while the sun shines," as he is an ardent advocate of the philosophy of living the present to the ultimate and letting the future take care of itself. However do not let this fact lead you to believe that he is entirely devoted to pleasure for pleasure's sake; for Billy has an excellent mind and, even though his grades are only average, the list of subjects he can talk intelligently about is almost endless, and he will long be remembered for his classic argument as to whether or not  $A^\circ = 1$ . Billy has also contributed much to the Academy in the way of athletics, being a member of the varsity football, basketball and baseball teams. During his high school career "Bird" has made many friends, ranging from members of the Virginia Beach Police Force to employees of the Norfolk Municipal Airport.

Billy is still undecided about his future, but I am sure that his keen mind and sharp wit will carry him successfully through any undertaking.

WADE JOHNSON

Wade doesn't say much, so we won't either.

When he does talk, it's to the point, and his genuineness of character has quickly communicated itself to the Class of '59, which Wade joined just this year.

As in his speech, so in his action, Wade progresses to the point he is headed for with conscientious steadiness. He will turn aside for a joke, and is just as good at taking one as promoting one.

This year, there is talk of "The Lost Class of '59" but certainly, with Wade as one of our number, it is not likely that we will share such a fate.

LARRY LOCKWOOD

"Big Lar" has adopted the philosophy of a non-conformist, a fact which is clearly brought out in his "different" shirt-tie combinations and his error-free themes. He is always ready and willing to argue any subject, his final retort invariably being: "I'm right till proven wrong."

One of the highlights of Mr. Tucker's fifth period class in American history is Larry and his sly comments on the Ku Klux Klan, General Grant or John Casper.

"Lock," a tall boy of six-four, is not what you would call the athletic type although he is very much interested in sports. He made the soccer team last year and has been practicing and sprinting all fall in order to assure himself of a position on the squad this winter.

Larry's notoriety lies in academics where he is second to no one. He made school history in 1954 when he represented Tidewater in the state spelling bee and came out twenty-eighth in the nation. He's a member of the science club and is the assistant editor of the "Belfry."

Larry plans to further his education at Dartmouth, where I'm sure he'll stand out as the excellent student that he is.

JOSEPH BARNARD PARKER, Jr.

The time: fourth period.

The place: room A basement of Norfolk Academy.

The curtain rises. We see Mr. Johnson teaching his College Algebra class. The class seems to be found in rapt interest with the exception of the right front corner where a murmuring can be heard.

(Mr. Johnson) "What are you mumbling about now, Joe?"

(Joe) "But, sir . . ."

It is safe to assume that Joe was talking about his favorite subject, obviously not Algebra, "Girls." Tall, short, blonde, brunette, they're all important to Joe. Seriously however, Joe has other interests such as: um . . . ah . . ., Joe has other interests.

Ever since Joe entered the Academy as a sophomore he has been an asset to both the school and the senior "class of '59." He is a letter man in varsity basketball, captain of the football team, and president of the Monogram Club. He also takes personal pride and interest in his studies.

JOHN RIPPEY

John Rippey, the only senior from Portsmouth, has upheld the honor of that city at the Academy. He comes, originally, from Minnesota and the hot weather here has extreme effects on him on the football field. Rip's most noticeable physical attribute is his bright red hair which brings light into the otherwise dingy senior study hall.

At the Academy John Rippey has made a great contribution in the scientific field. As a student of the great Einstein, Rip has acquired an understanding of relativity which is rarely found in a high school student; his ability to reason clearly is demonstrated in his interest in the abstract sciences. This interest in science has, inevitably, led Rip to the presidency of the Epsilon Club.

One should not draw the conclusion that John is interested only in science; for his contributions to the "Belfry" and his knowledge of classical music illustrate the variety of his interests. Aside from his intellectual abilities, Rip is one of the first string guards on the Academy's football team.

Above all of these many attributes of Rip's, another stands out as a valuable contribution. He adds color to the senior class.

MIKE SMITHER

... is the fellow with the slow but winning smile — a southern-type smile, one which Mike eventually plans to carry South with him. Among Mike's pet dislikes are New York, a symbol of the cold Northland.

There are, however, no smiles on the faces of the game in Princess Anne County, for Mike is a mighty hunter. Along with hunting, he enjoys dancing and popular music — and someone to go with both. Among his passions are the beach and plain old sunlit, sea-washed sand; and one can surely sympathize with this emotion.

Mike tells us that he lost nine pounds when he came to the Academy, but gained it back — to the dismay of Bulldog opponents on the football and soccer fields. On the playing field, in the classroom, anywhere he may be found, Mike is a fellow who "is tall in the saddle."

BEAU WALKER

(Cymbals crash!!! Trumpets blare!!!) Enter Montroville Bowen Walker III, famed world traveler. "Beau" or "Walk" has resided in French Morocco, Spain, and — yes, the center of Western civilization, Virginia Beach. We hear that his most recent home in the wilderness of upper Princess Anne County was nearly washed away in the last storm.

From "Walk" himself, we hear less of scholarly activities and more of, uet us say, extracurricular activities. The truth of what he says is corroborated by the fact that he is seen at most social activities. "Walk's" black Volkswagen may be considered as his trademark and his high-pitched laugh is often heard in senior study hall. He has participated in football, soccer and baseball, excelling in all three.

At this point the reader should stop to reconsider what has been said, for "Beau" is a paradox. He maintains the average necessary for senior study hall privileges, but is rarely seen studying. "Walk" ranks with the best in history courses and consistently makes astute comments about world affairs, particularly in the Middle East. His language ability is undisputed, since he speaks French and Spanish fluently.

There is little doubt that "Walk" will enter a field which he enjoys. If he combines his numerous abilities with ambition, his chances of success in whatever field he enters will be very great.

DOUG WOOD

Doug Wood may be called one of the truly versatile members of our stalwart class, hewn of the renaissance tradition of men. His leadership is in evidence by his placement in the class standings. When Doug provides his observations in class, everyone present takes notice of what he has to say. For instance, when we had a difficult problem in physics, Doug solved it with a few well-timed comments. About the only time he is left out of class discussions is when the subject concerns who is the possessor of the fastest car. Doug doesn't claim to have won too many victories with his two cylinder Rambler on the Atlantic Avenue drag strip. However, Doug has had more than his share of success with girls. We can remember last year he dated three different Beach lovelies — all in one night.

On the positive side of the ledger, Doug is gifted with quite a bit of leadership. Last year he was president of his church fellowship, and this year he is president of the entire tidewater district. Besides this, he plays varsity basketball and tennis and he is Co-Editor of the "Orange and White."

Doug wants to go either to the Naval Academy or to M.I.T. We can do no more than to wish him to continue the success he has had here at the Academy.

Minutes of Senior Class Meeting

June 10, 1959. Purpose: to decide on future date for reunion ten years hence. Seriousness of meeting slightly hindered by the fact that we had just been graduated. As usual Bruce Price came swinging in late, interrupting a game of chance between Fred Goldberg, Richard Glasser and the "Bird."

Down the hall several latecomers could be heard whispering in strained voices.

"In here, in here," whispered Mike Smither.

His cohorts, Doug Wood and Lar Lockwood, bore a small black auto on their backs. They succeeded in dumping it into the boiler room. Seconds later Beau Walker came stomping down the hall.

"Okay, who's the wise guy?"

Meanwhile, Bill Hofheimer had been interrupted from his card game long enough to open the meeting by giving a moving version of the Scriptures. An unexpected guest arrived who witnessed the reading.

Just as effervescent Bobby Bennett, master of ceremonies, took over the meeting and began to speak, he was interrupted by Zack Glasser, who was describing a new song he had learned on the chords to Taze Hubard.

"Like this," said Zack, "Bum bum bum bum, bum, bum bum, bum bum bum."

These were accompanied with recurring rises and falls in emphasis.

"Hey, that's great," wailed Taze.

Bobby recommenced:

"Here we have one of the most outstanding seniors in the class. A person who has been my classmate for twelve years. He is the leader of the opposition to every (and any) faction."

At this, big Lar Lockwood stood up on the table, stretched out his arms, fingers extended, and all of a sudden the room became silent.

Larry's face remained impassive as he began to speak:
 "What will you all be doing in twenty years?" he screamed with the violence that we were all waiting for.
 "What, what, what, what?"

With this question he brought down his fist on the podium (which ceased to remain in its condition previous to the blow). "I say (he smacked his fist on the palm of his hand) that the conditions in America will be conducive to an absolutist state. Only under that form of government can America gain the status as the world's biggest bully and I the immortal fame which I so worthily deserve."

When Larry had finished Malcolm Griffin Scully took the floor and in a torrent of descriptive and unsavory words denounced Lar as being undemocratic, unrealistic and unruly. He said that as long as the Democrats were in power there would be no danger to the government from such uncommon undercurrents as Lockwood.

When this rebuttal had been delivered, the meeting broke up into a general bull session.

"You're wrong, Rip, you're wrong."

"No I'm not, Ralph, you are. It has been hypothetically proven that the speed of light is untenable. As an object approaches the speed of light, its mass increases. As the mass increases, so does its resistance. With a greater resistance, the speed can't increase but so much."

Ralph wasn't at all pleased by Rip's dissertation and answered, "But I read somewhere . . ."

In the center of the floor another conversation was going on:

"If we leave right after the meeting, we could be in Richmond by 7:30 (it was then six o'clock). I'll call her when we get there and if she's not there, I'll call her," said Freddy Goldberg as he handed various pictures to Taze Hubbard, who nodded at some and shook his head at others.

Richard Glasser and Wade Johnson stood off to one side and Richard was describing his '55 Ford to Wade in glowing terms. Wade listened seriously for a moment, then broke into an hysterical laugh. Richard was somewhat disgruntled by this and snapped back that 55 was a good year for Fords anyhow, especially his. Wade guffawed again.

Before Richard could continue his argument, Wade had been sidetracked by Bruce Price into a discussion on the merits and demerits of the "Beats."

For some time the foaming of liquid and clinking of glasses could be heard over in the corner. Soon a crowd began to gather around Joe Parker who was concocting some mixture.

"Have some, it's good," said Joe.

Everyone filled his glass and drank deeply.

"Ye gads," they all shouted, "what was that?"

"Milk of magnesia and seven-up."

Seventeen glasses crashed to the floor. Joe smiled, he had the rest for himself.

Once more Bobby Bennett called the meeting to order.

"Doug Wood will now lead us in the benediction."

When the prayer was over, we all sang a jazzed-up version of the Academy Hymn. Doug Avery led an imaginary symphony orchestra.

Then we shook hands and left, promising to meet again, ten years hence. By then the world would know our names.

Council

The Student Council is composed of eight members, the officers of the Fifth and Sixth Forms, and a faculty advisor. The President of the Senior Class serves as President of the Student Body and presides over the Council.

The Student Council's function is to give the students representation in the administration of the school and to act in an advisory capacity upon cases of violation of School rules.

The Academy is particularly proud of the responsible and dignified discharge of duties on the part of the Council.

The Monogram Club is an organization composed of those boys who have earned a letter in a varsity sport. Becoming a member is a proud part of a boy's tenure at the Academy, for this event is a tribute to the boys' athletic ability.

This year the Monogram Club has tightened its entrance requirements, thus making membership a little more appreciated. It has also undertaken more projects. High on the list is the augmentation of school spirit. In keeping with this purpose, the club has sponsored pep rallies and brought in posters before athletic contests. This year the Monogram Club instituted the Homecoming Dance, which was a big success. As usual, the club sponsored the cheerleaders and put on the Christmas Dance. These are a few of the club's activities.

Much of the credit for the success of this club belongs to Joe Parker, President, whose diligence and tireless efforts have raised the prestige of the club in the eyes of the student body.

The Belfry

"The Belfry" is a literary magazine which was established in 1955 in order to present the best of the original writing from the Academy. This writing includes short stories, essays, poetry and humor. This year's editors, Malcolm Scully, Lawrence Lockwood, Jr., and Bruce D. Price, are striving to maintain the standards established by previous editors.

The editors plan to publish three issues this year and hope that future editors will be able to publish an issue every month. They hope also that these issues will instill a movement towards outstanding writing at the Academy. They have set out this year with no other objectives than to publish the best of the school's original writing. However, it is their ultimate goal that "The Belfry" may one day be found on any newsstand beside magazines such as "The New Yorker."

Working on the publication staff of the school's annual gives valuable experience in journalism, decision-making, designing, business skill and creativeness. Besides it's a lot of fun and you get an extra picture of yourself in the yearbook: Please do not take this last statement too seriously because in reality the annual staff's work is harder than that of any other organization in the school. We are exceptionally proud of this year's annual and believe that it has reached a new level of distinction that we hope will be followed and improved upon in the years to come. The staff wishes to recognize Mr. Tucker, whose efforts have encouraged the business staff to raise over $1500 this year (more than any previous year), and also Mr. MacConochie, without whose unending devotion and aid the layout of the annual would not be possible.

Mr. HERZOG

The Key Club is the high school counterpart of Kiwanis. It is a service organization made up of outstanding boys from the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Forms of the Upper School, selected by the club itself and approved by the faculty. Its purposes are to develop a boy's initiative and leadership, to give him an opportunity to work with others, and to serve the school and community.

In keeping with its motto, "service," the Key Club performs many tasks which appear trivial but which must be taken care of throughout the school year. Some of the tasks are: keeping boys off the gym floor at chapel and school assemblies; taking care of the bulletin boards; and ushering at various school functions. But it also undertakes greater projects, such as putting on the annual spring dance. And yet the service is not limited to school alone. Each year the Key Club aids Kiwanis in selling Christmas trees. This year it joined the parent organization in selling Halloween candy. It also plans to send an underprivileged child to camp each year.

Each member constitutes an essential part of the Key Club, and the spirit and vigor with which they participate in the club's meetings and projects are a vital factor in the success of the Key Club.

Although the Sons and Grandsons Club is not one of the most important functioning organizations in the school, it is one of the most exclusive and desirable. There are no dues, no election of officers, no responsibilities, and this organization has only one meeting each year. This takes place on the front steps of the main building where the members gather to have their picture taken.

However amusing these facts might seem, the Sons and Grandsons Club is in reality a living memorial to the school, for it shows implicitly the faith that the men who attended the Academy had and still have in its ability to function as a school of thought as well as of character.

Under the guiding hands of Coach Armen Taylor, wrestling was inaugurated as a varsity sport this year at Norfolk Academy. Coach Taylor and his Grappling Groaners had their work cut out for them — to build from a raw nucleus a strong wrestling team to represent the Academy. In that aspect they have succeeded. From the beginning, the boys knew it would be difficult and, although the record so far has not been outstanding, the team has always fought to the best of its ability. The squad has gained skill, spirit and fortitude and, with the loss of only three first-stringers, Norfolk Academy's team of 1960 shows great promise.

Varsity Soccer

The Norfolk Academy soccer team, which has the honor of being the only one in the area, is now in its second season. The squad is lucky to have as coaches M. Jacques Jauvert and Mr. Charles Covell. The captains are Beau Walker and David Bowman.

Soccer is a fast game which depends more on skill than size, and everyone seems to enjoy the scrimmages. Thus far our record is 1—1. Last year the team went undefeated in five matches.

Soccer, due to its success and popularity, has gained a permanent position on the Norfolk Academy sports agenda.

Football — 1958

When the Bulldogs took the field for their first game, Coach Herzog knew he had the nucleus of a good football team. With six returning lettermen in the backfield there was little worry about what went on back of the line. He was also pretty confident that Beau Walker, Fred Baydush and John Rippey, all returning lettermen, along with newcomers Foy Devine, Bill McWilliams, Bill Hofheimer and Mike Morris, would combine to give NA a good forward wall. The only real uncertain element was defense, and even this came through better than ever before. Except for a miserable afternoon at Augusta Military Academy, the defense allowed only 8.8 points per game. However, Coach Herzog didn't have any idea that he was off to his finest season in his 5 years at the Academy when the team went to work on Poquoson in the first game on a Saturday afternoon in late September.

In case your memory has failed you, the Academy shut out Poquoson on that day, 38—0. Fred Baydush started the season off with a booming kick which careened off a Poquoson lineman. Bill McWilliams recovered the ball, and before our opponents knew what had happened, Kenny Miller had dashed for two TD's. Beau Walker and Randy Rau soon hit the scoring column, and at the half we held a commanding 25—0 lead. Charlie Norris and Joe Parker crossed the goal in the second half, and we left the field with a big victory.

The next weekend we journeyed into the mountains of western Virginia and took on Augusta Military Academy in Ft. Defiance. When we left the field that day we had been beaten and beaten badly. AMA cashed in on its obvious advantage in size and experience and drubbed us 55—0. Nothing went right that day. The Cadets pounced on our fumbles and moved the ball over for TD's again and again.

The great way that the team rebounded in its next game was what assured everyone that we really had a team. Although we were matched against a small Barry-Robinson team and heavily favored, the victory that day was quite gratifying. Barry-Robinson had outfought us before and taken home the winning score when we thought we had the game in the bag, but not this time.

John Fyfe, Miller, Rau and Tom Supak all tallied for TD's and Tim McCoy scored twice, to give us a 39—0 win. This was the game in which not one pass was thrown, but we didn't need to take to the air in this one, for our team strength was just too much for our opponents and our backs had little trouble finding the way to pay dirt.

In the next game we played host to Cape Charles and defeated them to the tune of 48—13. Our backs enjoyed a field day, scoring seven times, although we lost a few more TD's as a result of penalties and fumbles. Still the Bulldogs managed to roll up 533 yards from scrimmage with Rau (215) and Parker (118) accounting for 333 of this number. Each also scored twice and single tallies by Miller, Fyfe and Geoff Shumway added to the romp. Richard White booted six placements in seven tries to give us our highest scoring total of the year.

Everyone wanted to win the next game badly, but the team couldn't turn the trick. We had the manpower to do it, but St. Christopher's cashed in on some costly errors on our part and defeated us by 25—0. Two long punt runbacks for TD's were what really broke our backs in this contest.

Homecoming Day found us against Christchurch, and sparked by QB Bill Messmer and Captain Joe Parker, as we had been all season long, we wasted little time in piling up a 14—0 advantage at half time. Miller and Walker scored in the second quarter to give us this lead. Tom Supak added another TD in the third period, but then CC got going. They tallied twice early in the last quarter to pull within seven points of us. But then Kenny Miller scored again and put the game on ice. The final score: 27—13.

Despite rain and officiating we closed out our finest season in grand style by licking Quantico Post, 40—2. This win gave us the Tri-School Football Trophy, since we had already beaten Christchurch. Parker, Miller, Supak, Messmer, McCoy and Fyfe provided the scoring as we coasted to victory. This was the last game for Joe Parker, Bill Hofheimer, John Rippey, Beau Walker, Mike Smither, Bobby Bennett and Wade Johnson, and it was nice that we could win it.

This was 1958 football at NA, and we owe a lot to Mr. Herzog and Mr. Harvie along with a fine team for making it so successful. A 5—2 record is the best in ages (if not the best ever) for an Academy team, but we're looking for an even better one in '59.

This year's basketball team has proved to be one of the best in the Academy's history — having thus far compiled a record of eleven wins and three losses and reaching a rank of fourth among the sixteen schools of the Tidewater area.

However, the start of the season was not so bright, as the team lost its first three games:

an overtime loss to Virginia Beach, followed by defeats at the hands of St. Christopher's and St. Paul's. From that time on the Norfolk Academy five has been unbeatable, and is now riding on the crest of an eleven-game winning streak. The train of victories began with Barry Robinson and has, to date, run through one other victory over that school. In between have been two victories each over Norfolk Catholic, Northampton and Franklin, and single victories over Christchurch, Frederick and Virginia Beach. The victory over the Beach was sweet revenge for the heartbreaking defeat they dealt the team in the opening game.

The Supak twins, Mike Morris and three dependable forwards, Joe Parker, Dave Fuller and Fred Baydush, plus valuable relief work from Howard Martin, have contributed to the already successful season.

The Supaks, both guards, hit their peak against Norfolk Catholic in the first of two games. Jon got 22 points and Tom got 21. The two have been invaluable all season with their brilliant backcourt play. Fortunately they return for the '59-'60 season.

Mike Morris and Howard Martin have been the big rebounders on the team. They have always worked quite well at the pivot, many times outplaying larger counterparts, and the forwards have provided the balance of this fine team.

Most of the squad returns next year and, with the help of a strong J.V., Coach Bill Harvie is looking for an even better season.

The J.V. basketball team had the big problem of playing to its potential. The record at this writing is eight wins and three defeats. All three losses were to good teams, but Coach Emerson Johnson felt that our team was the better. The wins included victories over Northampton, Franklin, Christchurch, South Norfolk, St. Paul's and Virginia Beach, with losses at the hands of Catholic and Northampton.

The regulars, McCoy, Miller, Howard, McClanan and Rau, all turned in outstanding performances at one time or another, but none coincided. Subs Levin, Manser, Chapman and Norris also saw a good deal of action.

The season on the whole seems good, but the three losses were disappointing.

The 1958 baseball season was supposed to be one of rebuilding for the Bulldogs. The Academy came through with flying colors! Even though the record was an unspectacular 5 wins and 9 losses, Coach Cumiskey praised the team as surpassing its predecessors in hitting, fielding and spirit. The Bulldogs started out rather slowly, dropping the first 6 games. They finished strong, however, winning 5 of the remaining 8.

Two seniors, Tuck Scully and Dudley Mitchell, were the Academy's co-captains. The team was well-managed by Iain Cameron, who gave the team the continental touch.

Tuck Scully was the ace of the pitching staff. He was cited as one of the team's mainstays by Coach Cumiskey. Dudley Mitchell, who roamed the ranges of N. A.'s outfield, was the team's longball hitter. He hit his peak when he slammed a bases-loaded home run against Virginia Beach. Billy Hofheimer helped Scully with the pitching chores and played the outfield. His hitting was a great deal of help. Beau Walker was one of the team's sparkplugs at second base. His clutch hitting was consistent in tight spots. Tim McCoy was an outfielder of note. His offensive and defensive prowess helped the team last year and is available this season. Bill Messmer played shortstop well. He led the team in hitting with .342, several notches above McCoy's .333. Frank Newton's work at third base will be missed this year. He consistently turned in creditable performances throughout the season. Coach Comiskey thinks the future looks better than ever. Returning at first will be Butch Smith and Jon Supak. Second base is conceded to Beau Walker. Short and third will be occupied by Bill Messmer and Tom Supak. Kenny Miller, the stalwart catcher of 1958, returns in '59. Billy Hofheimer will be alternating at pitcher and the outfield. Tim "Dirty" McCoy is back in the outfield. The coach is counting on the new students and last year's J.V. to fill in at the remaining positions.

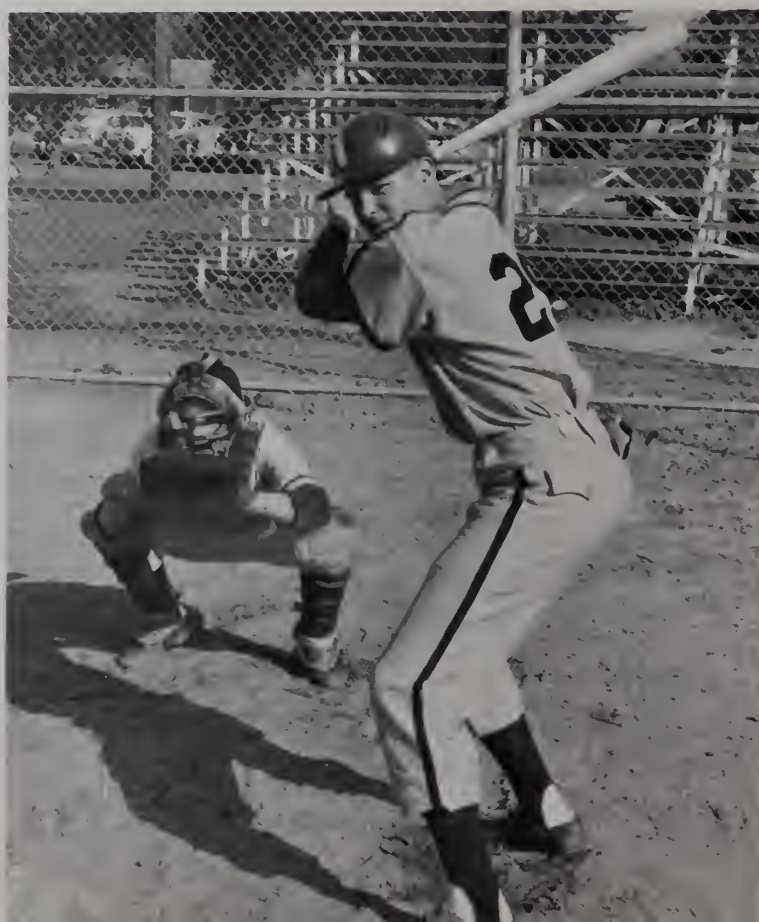

The future looks rosy for the Bulldogs.

J. V. Baseball

For the first time in the history of the school, Norfolk Academy fielded a Junior Varsity baseball team. The object of the Junior Varsity is to teach boys in the Second and Third Forms the art of baseball with the hopes of developing future material for the Varsity. Much progress towards this goal was made during the spring of 1957.

The J.V., coached by Mr. Johnson, had a successful season of three wins and two losses. They played three games with Junior High League teams and two with Christchurch J.V. The highlight of the season was the second game with Christchurch, an 11 to 1 victory for the Academy.

The team consisted of Sonny Wooden at first base, Skip Kight at second, Dudley Lublin at short-stop, Charley Norris at third, Pete McWilliams, Bob Fowler and Bobby Cole in the outfield, Marshall Taylor behind the plate, and Bobby Culpepper, Dicky Hofheimer and Hunt Rawlings on the mound.

All in all, the J.V. baseball team got off to a good start. Good luck to those to come.

Tennis — 1958

The Academy opened its 1958 tennis season with an experienced squad, consisting of returning lettermen Sidney Kelsey, Richard Tilghman, Arthur Stein, Doug Wood, Peter Agelasto, Legh Burke and Isaac Glasser; J.V. graduates Skipper Stirling and Bobby Stein; and newcomer, Mike Horstman. After two weeks of practice, Mr. Tucker named Kelsey, Tilghman, Stein, Agelasto, Wood and Horstman as his starting six.

The team's opening match was with Granby on April 4, and it responded with a 9—0 triumph. Four days later, Mr. Tucker and his protégés invaded the courts of the Red Raiders of Suffolk, and suffered a hard-fought 6—3 loss against one of the top teams of the Eastern District.

The next match was with Warwick, still another Eastern District power, but this time the Academy six won a 9—0 victory, without losing a set in the singles and only one in the doubles. This victory was followed by a 5—4 triumph over Maury in a contest which was spread over two days as a result of the first day's play being halted by darkness. On the second day, with the score 4—4 and having lost the first set, Arthur Stein and Richard Tilghman rallied to win the next two sets and cinch the victory.

The team gained great satisfaction from this win, and followed it up with an 8—1 decision over Craddock and an 8—0 rout of Norview.

The last three matches of the season were against Franklin, St. Christopher's of Richmond and Maury. Franklin and St. Christopher's had too much experience and depth for the Academy squad and both won 6—3 victories. The team must have been demoralized by these losses; for in its last match of the season, it suffered a 9—0 loss to Maury.

Thus, even though the season ended in an unhappy way, Mr. Tucker and his team compiled a 5—4 record against the best teams the area had to offer. Next year, Mr. Tucker plans to build his squad around returning lettermen Mike Horstman, Doug Wood and Sidney Kelsey and a number of experienced reserves and J.V. players. So here's hoping that the Academy squad of 1959 will continue to enjoy the prestige the team of 1958 gained by its fine play and sportsmanship.

J. V. Tennis

This year's J.V. tennis team was an excellent one made up of many players who showed great varsity potential. The first six were Keith Crowley, Sandy Goodridge, Nick Wright, Ed Levin, Cornell Berry and George Holderness.

While the squad spent most of its time in practice, it did have three matches — all with Virginia Beach High School's varsity. All three were victories: two by scores of 9—0 and the third by an 8—1 margin.

JUNIOR

SENIOR

From its very beginning the Junior-Senior Prom of 1958 was destined to be an affair to satisfy even the most ardent Rock 'n Roll fans; for music by the Quarter Notes is noted for its beat rather than its dreamy qualities. This Junior-Senior Prom will long be remembered as one that started in high gear and proceeded to pick up speed as the evening progressed until at its close it literally seemed as if the old NA gym was ready to blast into orbit at any moment, but, it didn't, and at midnight the curtain fell on a dance that will be remembered as something quite special by all who attended.

Field

Field Day at the Academy resembles a fair — only it is more interesting. Activities range from bookselling to baseball. At nine-thirty the track and field events begin. At ten-thirty the sale of tickets begins. These may be bought in large numbers (if one has the wherewithal) and carried around in long strings to be used to purchase three balls to throw, five pennies to toss, or four sandwiches to eat. The country store operated by the boys' mothers, sells clothes, bananas, and household goods, and usually nets a good part of the total income from Field Day. The cafeteria is open for those who desire a bit of sustenance after a hard morning of sponge-throwing. For eager science fans, the doors of the lab are opened, and they may enter to gaze at the complex displays created by the Academy's brilliant young scientists. Later in the afternoon, the lower school play, the parent-and-son tennis matches, and the father-and-son baseball game take place. The last mentioned of these three is especially entertaining. The climax of this great day is the drawing for prizes at four-thirty.

Field Day of 1958 was the greatest success yet, supplying the school with funds used for improving the science facilities and other phases of Academy life. It is hoped, however, that Field Day of 1959 will surpass all previous ones (especially in the number of masters dunked).

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

- I, Dave Bowman, leave my squeal marks on the parking lot.
- I, Doug Avery, leave a pair of elevator shoes for Mr. Tucker.
- I, Ralph Beamon, leave my brother Bob for Mr. Johnson to call Ralph.
- I, Bobby Bennett, leave my seven iron wrapped around a magnolia tree on the fifth hole.
- I, Zak Glasser, leave five shares of A.T.&T. to anyone willing to pay \$4,500 at  $4\frac{1}{2}\%$  compound interest.
- I, Richard Glasser, leave for Maples.
- I, Fred Goldberg, leave my dice, chips, and eyeshade, and five aces to Randy Rau and Tim McCoy.
- I, Bill Hofheimer, leave my collection of Hot Rod magazines to the library.
- I, Wade Johnson, leave two dead decoys to Bob Steinhilber.
- I, Larry Lockwood, leave my collection of nooses and tar brushes to any aspiring KKK member in the student body.
- I, Joe Parker, leave my pink hairbrush to Doc Kepchar.
- I, Bruce Price, leave my scribbling on the wall to the Norfolk Academy Art Museum.
- I, John Rippey, leave a bull.
- I, Malcolm Scully, leave my collection of old folk songs to Burl Ives.
- I, Mike Smither, leave my donuts from snack to Richard Marshall.
- I, Beau Walker, leave my collection of conservative cravats to John Fyfe.
- I, Doug Wood, would like to point out before I leave that the Junior Class has been doing their algebra homework wrong for the last two weeks.
- I, Taze Huber, leave for a far, far better place than I have ever been.
